Derrick Brooks Selected for Rivero, Gordimer & Company Community Impact Leader Award at Non-Profit Appreciation Day 2021

TAMPA, Fla. (December 3, 2021)—Rivero, Gordimer & Company, P.A. (RGCO) is proud to announce that hall-of-fame NFL football player and philanthropist Derrick Brooks has been awarded RGCO's Community Impact Leader Award. The award recognizes individuals whose positive effects on the Tampa Bay community are both impactful and long-lasting.

"Derrick is very deserving of this award," said RGCO Shareholder Sam Lazzara. "His continued dedication to serving the Tampa Bay Community is something we should all be proud to support and recognize." The entire RGCO Not-for-Profit Committee, made up of team members Mr. Lazzara, Shareholder James O'Connor, Senior Manager Julie Davis, Committee Chair and Manager Brooke Dawson, Manager Alicia Holloway, Ray Tompkins, Ally Revell, and Isha Del Valle, thank Mr. Brooks for attending and being the keynote speaker at the annual event.

Mr. Brooks was awarded this honor on November 10 at Rivero, Gordimer & Company's 2021 Non-Profit Appreciation Day. This year's event saw its largest turnout since RGCO began hosting it annually, with more than 100 clients, nonprofit representatives, and RGCO team members in attendance. The day featured several industry thought-leaders, informative and engaging perspectives on the non-profit sector, and served as a networking opportunity for non-profit professionals and charities throughout the Tampa Bay area. For more details and photos on the event, please visit RGCO's LinkedIn, Facebook, or Twitter social media pages. Watch the same space for information on next year's event.
